Census - Foreign Demographic Analysis Division

		Planned budget
FY 69 - Section 42 (Characteristics of the People)	7	25X1A
Section 43 (Religion, Education, and Public Information)	1
Section 4 (Sociological contribution to GS)	2
Social Characteristics (single volume)	2
Section 41 (Population)	5
Input to Section 4 General Survey	10

Elimination of this contract would deny the NIS support of the only office in the Government attempting to provide sociological (including population, basic culture patterns, and welfare) analysis by professional standards of competence and adequate depth. This Census staff, furthermore is one of the two (2) most competent and effective -- if not the most effective -- of all the USIB and non-USIB staffs contributing to political, sociological, and economic NIS coverage of foreign countries, world-wide. Its detailed studies are a primary source for Agency sociological analysis (such as OCI and OER contributions to the General Survey and for other publication series). Loss of this contract would place a burden upon OCI and upon OER (for example, for standards of living and welfare information) which they are neither staffed nor competently specialized to assume.
